Day 3

Hotel: Hotel - Best Western Du Parc / Mercure Chantilly OR similar in Chantilly (Standard / Value)

Meals: Breakfast

PARIS CHANTILLY | VIA TRAIN

Breakfast at the hotel. You will make your way to the train station or avail of a private transfer at the cost of EUR 60 per person to Paris Train station for your onward journey to Chantilly.

[The journey time will be approx. 30 - 35 mins with few limited direct train options as well]

Welcome to Chantilly! Chantilly is famous around the world for many things: its ch&acirc;teau, racecourse, and equine heritage, lace-making and, of course, its whipped cream! Located just to the north of Paris, Chantilly is the ideal place for an excursion outside of the city, or for a dedicated weekend break!

Chantilly is listed as a 'town of art and history'. The Castle will be the first port of call for many visitors here, and indeed many get no further. Have you seen the James Bond film A View to a Kill? The scenes at the villain's fabulous country estate were filmed at the Chateau de Chantilly, and the chateau's stables and racecourse also made an appearance.

Check-in at the hotel and rest of the day is free for leisure activities and explore the town on your own.

Insider Tip - Appreciate Chantilly's Famous Lace

Chantilly lace is world famous, and the art itself is utterly amazing. The intricate knotting and twisting of thin silk strands with dozens of wooden bobbins by hand is, sadly, a dying art. But in the 17th century, it was popular with the rich, who were the only ones who could afford the adornments that took hours and days to complete. Chantilly's small museum dedicated to the art has some lovely examples of Chantilly lace, from shawls to lace collars to entire dresses.

Day 4

Meals: Breakfast

EXPLORE CHANTILLY

Breakfast at the hotel and get ready uncover the hidden gem of France - Chantilly!

A beautiful stroll through the Forest

The 15,675-acre Chantilly Forest is the reason why the chateau was built here in the first place. In the shade of the oak trees, limes, hornbeams, and pines, you'll find plenty of hiking and walking trails, none of them strenuous. It is a perfect green oasis - so different from the manicured gardens of the chateau, and yet just across the road.

If you love nature and cannot get enough of it - Saunter Through The Le Notre Gardens

The gardens of the Chateau de Chantilly are actually three gardens stretching across more than 280 acres. The oldest is the French Garden, created by none other than master gardener Andre Le Notre of Versailles and Tuileries fame. Stylized, ornate, and organized, it is a garden where you can easily visualize royalty strolling about.

Marvel At The Books In The Library

The favorite part of the chateau, however, is the library; it's simply perfect, with its floor-to-ceiling books, mezzanine level accessed by a wooden staircase, and reading nooks. Make sure to take time to examine the books in the vitrines in the center of the room; they are very old - many of them handwritten and illustrated - and just stunning

Finally Fathom The Chateau And Its Art

Henri d'Orleans was a serious collector. His chateau consists of an older part, built in 1358, and a newer part, dating to the 1800s, which has been turned into a museum. The museum holds his art collection, which is second only to the collection at the Louvre in size. Much of the artwork depicts scenes of war, since the duke was a military man, but there is much more to discover
